Description

cloudburst is Tim Westcott from Portland, Oregon.

On his first release "katedra", he operates with very minimal, subtle drones and little repetitive elements, shifting into each other. Originally written for a performance in cathedral space, the first two pieces ("katedra jeden", "katedra dwa") are very light, crystal and create a wide open, meditative soundscape. The third piece ("flora") is a more dense production, just taking you back from the big, enormous "katedra".

All elements in this work are used very carefully and with a great sense for change at the right moment. Every tone seems to appear from a different direction, waving around, striving to heaven. All together a very deep, atmospheric and sublime creation.
